

I would like to voice my concern over the proposed limitations that are being sought against XM satellite radio. Several months ago i acquired my first vehicle equipped with satellite radio and immediately liked the type of service provided and made the decision to continue my XM subscription after the expiration of the introductory period. I very much enjoy the variety of music provided that is commercial free in addition to being able to listen to such stations as CNN while in my vehicle. I would be very much opposed to any restrictions being placed on the service that I have very much come to enjoy and I am especially concerned that what I am permitted to listen to might be dictated by the National Association of Broadcasters. It should in my opinion be an individual choice regarding personal listening preferences and Because of this belief I would respectfully request that the FCC (not) restrict my right to enjoy the services provided to me by XM satellite radio in favor of NAB. Thank you for your consideration.
